1. New mask process: We ask you to consider wearing a surgical mask while at work in clinical areas. It is critical that we all understand that implementing this measure requires strict conservation practices given that our supply is not infinite and we will face the challenge of short supply like others in the nation. Effective today, staff should obtain one surgical mask that they can wear in the facility. Staff will sign out a mask for their use and keep that mask with them to wear at work. When your mask breaks or becomes soiled, you can exchange it for a new mask. You must present the mask to exchange it for a new mask. If you lose your
1. We have heard from members of our community that they want to support our mission during this time of need. The GW COVID Response Fund was established to support the work of our faculty, staff, and students during this crisis.

2. Clinical Public Health Learning Lab: Virtual Symposium on Covid-19 - The George Washington University School of Medicine and Health Sciences (SMHS) Clinical Public Health faculty will host a new learning lab educational series about clinical public health topics and their implications. The inaugural lab, taking place this Friday, will focus on the evolving COVID-19 pandemic. Click here to learn more!
