Message From the GWish Executive Director:

The FICA Spiritual History Tool is a communication tool used as part of the clinical interview by clinicians who assess and develop treatment plans for patients. The goal of taking a spiritual history is to identify spiritual distress, learn about spiritual resources, and to invite patients to share what gives them meaning and purpose.

Developed for physicians, advance practice nurses, physician assistants, social workers, psychologists, and other clinicians, the FICA questions are integrated into the personal or social history at new-patient visits, updated annually, and addressed in follow-up visits when the patient is experiencing distress. The FICA Tool should also be used in acute visits where spiritual issues may be present, such as when bad news is being delivered, or for exploring what types of spiritual resources might help a patient cope.

The FICA Tool creates space for patients to share more deeply about their suffering, which gives the clinician the opportunity to practice deep listening and presence. This tool is widely used in a variety of clinical settings and has also been integrated into many electronic health records.

Sincerely,
Christina Puchalski, MD, FACP, FAAHPM, GWish Founder and Executive Director
Introduction

Simple yet powerful, the FICA Spiritual History Tool offers a step-by-step guide to help you gather information about a patient’s spiritual history and preferences. Having a conversation about spirituality early in the relationship demonstrates to patients and their families that you are prepared to walk beside them on their health journey—particularly through acute illness or end-of-life.

The guided questions are presented in the following sequence:

F. Faith and Belief: Determine whether or not the patient identifies with a particular belief system or spirituality at all.

I. Importance: Understand the importance of spirituality in the patient’s life and the influence on healthcare decisions.

C. Community: Find out if the patient is part of a religious or spiritual community, or if they rely on their community for support.

A. Address in Care: Learn how to address spiritual issues with regards to caring for the patient.

The FICA Spiritual History Tool can be used during new-patient visits, annual exams, or at follow-up visits when appropriate.

Using the FICA acronym as a guide, these questions will help you cover a broad range of spiritual preferences in a short period of time.

F - Faith and Belief
"Do you consider yourself spiritual or religious?" or "Is spirituality something important to you" or "Do you have spiritual beliefs that help you cope with stress/ difficult times?" (Contextualize to reason for the visit if it is not the routine history.)

If the patient responds "No," the health care provider might ask, "What gives your life meaning?" Sometimes patients respond with answers such as family, career, or nature.

(The question of meaning should also be asked even if people answer yes to spirituality)

I - Importance
"What importance does your spirituality have in your life? Has your spirituality influenced how you take care of yourself, your health? Does your spirituality influence you in your healthcare decision making? (e.g. advance directives, treatment, etc.)

C - Community
"Are you part of a spiritual community?” Communities such as churches, temples, and mosques, or a group of like-minded friends, family, or yoga can serve as strong support systems for some patients. Further exploration: “Is this of support to you and how? Is there a group of people you really love or who are important to you?”

A - Address in Care
"How would you like me, your healthcare provider, to address these issues in your healthcare?" (With the newer models including diagnosis of spiritual distress, ‘A’ also refers to the "Assessment and Plan" for addressing patient spiritual distress or issues within a treatment or care plan.)

FICA Spiritual History Tool Cards

While the questions in the FICA tool are brief and straightforward, we recognize that healthcare providers have a lot to cover in each patient visit. Because of this, we have prepared a ‘cheat sheet’ for you.

In a convenient 2”x 4” pocket size, our FICA cards offer a condensed version of the FICA Spiritual History Tool. By using this card as a guide, it will be easier for you complete the assessment in a manageable period of time.
Additional Recommendations for Using the FICA Spiritual History Tool

The FICA Spiritual History Tool can be used during new-patient visits, annual exams, or at follow-up visits when appropriate. When taking a patient’s spiritual history, it’s important to adhere to the following:

1. Regard spirituality as a potentially important component of every patient’s physical well being and mental health.

2. Address spirituality at each complete physical examination and continue addressing it at follow-up visits if appropriate. In patient care, spirituality is an ongoing issue.

3. If a patient presents with distress, the clinician should always assess for psycho-social and spiritual distress as well as physical.

4. Respect a patient’s privacy regarding spiritual beliefs; don’t impose your beliefs on others.

5. Make referrals to chaplains, spiritual directors, or community resources as appropriate.

6. Be aware that your own spiritual beliefs will help you personally and will overflow in your encounters with those for whom you care to make the doctor-patient encounter a more humanistic one.
About The George Washington Institute for Spirituality & Health (GWish)

Established in 2001, GWish quickly adopted a leadership role in the field of spirituality and health. Conducting research, educating practitioners, and impacting healthcare policy worldwide, GWish frequently collaborates with religious, spiritual, and health organizations to create more compassionate healthcare systems around the globe.

Under the direction of Founder and Executive Director Christina M. Puchalski, MD, FACP, FAAHPM, GWish has created widespread awareness about the profound impact of introducing spiritual care into provider/patient relationships. Patients and their families experience significant relief from spiritual and emotional distress in times of acute illness or end-of-life, and providers discover renewed meaning and purpose in their work.
